Spiritual Pranksters

Are you what some people would identify as a prankster? Are you able to pull things on people that completely fool them? One time I was at the beach with a group of friends, and I took an empty water bottle down with me and filled it up with ocean water; it looked just like a normal bottled water. I placed it in the fridge, and low and behold, someone grabbed it and took a big ole swig of it. The prank was successful because I was able to make it look like the real thing, even though its contents were something completely different.

What about a spiritual prankster? It seems people are really good at fooling others by making themselves look one way while the contents on the inside are completely different. Are you one of these? I love this about Daniel in Daniel chapter six. He had an "excellent spirit" in him to the point when they wanted to find something wrong with him, they just weren't able to do it. He didn't blend in with the rest of society around him because he chose spirituality. Daniel was authentic with no faking and no pranking. Do you think my water bottle prank mentioned above would've worked had I put food coloring in it? When it looks too different, it then stands out. It would've been too noticeable to make a successful prank. Hopefully, we aren't being successful spiritual pranksters out there.
